TOURDEFORCE (ITALY)

You can not describe the music of the Italian solo-act TourdeForce without defining it with elogiative words. The project not only combines the best electro-synthpopish methodologies, but possesses an highly catchy melodism and an extraordinary communicativeness, always enhanced by intelligent and evocative texts. Christian Ryder once again manages to transport you into an incredibly vivid sonic journey, this time through his new release entitled Very Industrial People, an album that once again demonstrates how great is the talent of this protagonist who has been honoring for years the technological music panorama. Drum-programming set at variable speed, suggestive flows of synths and solid vocals are the main elements that make this full-lenght an unique electronic scenery, so spectacular and unrepeatable, conceived and played with inspiration, originality and a great desire to amaze. The intrinsic beauty of this release is already imaginable by its solemn and triumphal sleeve, which explicitly invites you to dive into its hi-tech sounds running with your fantasy across its introspective concepts. You will be literally enraptured by irresistible harmonies, you will be enchanted by the meanings of the lyrics, you will dance for hours at the rhythm of many of the sixteen songs of the tracklist, to such an extent that you will want to click the "play" button once again! TourdeForce is an independent, audacious phenomenon, characterized by special compositional skills and far from the conventional synthpop models, who fully deserves all the interest and the sincere enthusiasm from his fans. "Very Industrial People" is only for very special electro listeners. Like you.
